AREAS OF EXPERTISE:

Licensing Planning Real Estate Litigation

Licensing

Leo is noted for his extensive expertise and experience of Licensing. He advises and represents a wide range of operators, local authorities and local residents across all aspects of licensing including the Licensing Act 2003, Gambling Act 2005; Taxi & Private Hire Vehicles; Sex Establishments; Pedlars & Street Trading, Special Treatment Licensing and busking.. In 2012 Leo's contribution to licensing law and practice was recognised by the Institute of Licensing who made him a Fellow of the Institute.

Leo's licensing practice has developed to include wider aspects of associated Local Government Law. He has advised on issues relating to local government constitutional arrangements, fees and most recently contributed to the successful adoption and development of a scheme for the licensing of Street Entertainment and Buskers within the London Borough of Camden: Keep Streets Live Campaign Ltd v London Borough of Camden [2014] EWHC 607 (Admin).

Alcohol and Entertainment Leo is regularly instructed to represent operators from small family run businesses to multinational companies. He is, for example, currently instructed on the vast majority of contested petrol forecourt convenience store applications. In March 2012 he successfully represented two garage forecourt sites in two test reviews where the West Yorkshire Police sought to review the two premises licences on the basis of allegations said to amount to breach of s 176 (Prohibition of Alcohol Sales at Garages). In January 2014 he persuaded a local authority that s 176 was incompatible with the EU Services Directive, this is an area of developing EU Law in which Leo takes a particular interest.

Additionally Leo advises and represents local licensing authorities. He recently, successfully represented the London Borough of Tower Hamlets in setting aside a decision of a district judge to award costs against the local authority in the sum of £21,986: Tower Hamlets LBC v Ashburn Estates Ltd (t/a The Troxy) [2011] EWHC 3504 (Admin). In the case the court also considered the competing interests, and in particular the wider community interests, that need to be considered by a local licensing authority on the receipt of a proper compromise offer. The question of costs and proper reasoning was also the subject of the case of Leeds City Council v Leeds District Magistrates & Ors [2013] EWHC 1346 (Admin).

Leo is involved in all the latest developments of licensing law and practice. He has most recently advised upon and contributed to Public health and the Licensing Act 2003 - a guidance note on effective participation by public health teams published by Public Health England in October 2014.

Gambling

Recently Leo has been involved in pushing the boundaries of the extent and scope of decision making under the Gambling Act 2005: Ladbrokes v London Borough of Hillingdon (Uxbridge Magistrates' Court, 25th September 2013). Leo continues to advise on the relationship between the licensing and planning regimes in the on-going debate over the regulation of high street betting shops.

Sexual Entertainment Venues

He is well known for his knowledge and expertise in Sex Establishment Licensing and continues to advise operators, the police and local authorities; he regularly lectures on the subject and has contributed a number of related articles to the Westlaw Insight project. Recently he has secured an SEV located in the City of Canterbury, acted for the police in opposing a renewal for an SEV in Soho and advised Birmingham City Council on the review of its SEV policy.

Taxi & Private Hire Vehicles

Leo predominately acts for local authorities and has recently been advising on recoverable fees under the Taxi and Private Hire regimes.

Street Trading

Leo's recent work includes securing the long term future of the iconic Kings Cross newsstand and advising on the control and regulation of "Chuggers". Leo has a particular interest in the continuing reform of Pedlar and Street Trading Law resulting from the implementation of the EU Services directive. He contributed to the successful adoption and development of a scheme for the licensing of Street Entertainment and Buskers within the London Borough of Camden: Keep Streets Live Campaign Ltd v London Borough of Camden [2014] EWHC 607 (Admin).

Other Licensing Regimes

Leo advises on the full range of local authority licensing regimes from Scrap Metal to Zoos. Recently Leo has been involved with issues arising in connection with the licensing of caravan sites this has involved engagement with planning law, building control, housing benefit and data protection issues.

Profile

Complementing his established licensing practice Leo also accepts instructions in associated areas of Local Government, Planning, Property and Land Law, Environmental and Statutory Nuisance Law.
